

15 young artists triumph in state PTA contest

Fifteen Utah students have been named winners in the 1983-84 PTA Reflections competition.

Judges chose the winners from more than 55,000 entries from across the state.

The winning entires will be forwarded to the national PTA for competition with similar work from other states. In the last several years, Utah participants have garnered a good percentage of the awards.

The theme of this year's competition was "I Have a Dream," and the objectives for the year were to provide an opportunity for children and youth to use their creative talents by expressing themselves through their own original works of art, emphasize the value of cultural arts in the school and recognize and encourage creative students in the fine arts.

A display of all regional winners considered for state competition will be on exhibit at the State PTA Convention Friday and Saturday in the Salt Palace.
